

Relationships and Boundaries

Who do I genuinely want to connect with today?

Where am I overextending myself to keep someone else comfortable?

What boundary would protect my time, energy, or peace today?

What conversation am I avoiding, and makes it hard?

Who makes me feel like myself, not a performance of myself?

How can I be more present with someone I care about today?