

Self Care Journaling

What is draining most of my energy right now?

What am I saying yes to when I really want to say no?

What kind of rest do I actually need: physical, mental, social, or emotional?

Which basic need have I been ignoring lately?

What is one small act of care I could give myself today without earning it first?

What could I temporarily remove from my schedule, expectations, or mental load?

